White Squirrel Capitol

"Where are all the squirrels?" we cried. Since a quick drive through Olney hadn't put any into our view. "Try the park" one carload yelled back, but we never made it there. We saw the crest at the Chamber of Commerce and decided that would have to do for now. Besides, there are several other cities contending in this category, so if albino squirrels aren't running wild in the streets, no clear-cut victory seems to be evident.
